CENTURION SERVICE GROUP ACQUIRES AUCTIONMART.COM

Surplus Medical Equipment Giant Expands Its Client Base and Technology Resources

MELROSE PARK, IL. -- April 27, 2009 -- Centurion Service Group, LLC, a healthcare asset management company that specializes in surplus medical equipment auctions and hospital liquidations, has acquired the on-line medical auction site AuctionMart.com from Intellamed, Inc. of Bryan, Texas. Financial terms were not disclosed.

AuctionMart is an online auction website exclusively for medical equipment that currently has over 100 hospitals selling its surplus medical equipment to buyers from over 140 countries across the globe. The addition of AuctionMart.com to Centurion Service Group will provide a greater audience for hospitals' installed radiology equipment and other installed assets. AuctionMart will also be utilized for timed auctions for Centurion's European operations, a marketplace for original equipment manufacturers (OEMs) and banks to sell excess inventory, trade-ins, and repossessions. Centurion Service Group was already the largest medical auction house in the world, selling over 5,000 pieces of medical equipment each month from their Chicago, Las Vegas, and Berlin warehouses.

"The addition of AuctionMart to our portfolio of auction services brings greater customization to how used medical equipment will be sold. Installed equipment has traditionally been brokered and the right buyers must be sought out. This manner of selling is labor-intensive and the reach is limited, but with the combined site traffic of Centurion Service Group and Auctionmart, we'll have the buyers come to us," said Erik Tivin, President of Centurion Service Group. "The best returns are generated through the naturally competitive auction format, and both our sellers and buyers benefit from the transparency of the transaction."

"Bringing AuctionMart into our portfolio of services is very exciting because Centurion has always embraced technology, from the state-of-the-art manner in which we inventory and track our 550 sellers' equipment, to the simulcasts of our live auctions over the Internet that allow for international buyers to more easily participate in our auctions. We feel the acquisition of AuctionMart is the perfect complement to our current medical auction business by bringing scalability to our model and meeting the diverse needs of our customers," said Tivin.

Centurion Service Group and AuctionMart personnel will work closely to transition the 100-plus AuctionMart contracts into Centurion Service Group and jointly will continue to grow the sales base.

About Centurion Service Group

Centurion Service Group is the largest medical auction house in the world with locations in Chicago, Las Vegas and Berlin. Centurion's sellers are equipment manufacturers, hospitals, surgery centers, radiology centers, and other healthcare facilities in the United States and Europe, and has buyers from around the world. Centurion assists healthcare facilities with every phase of the equipment's life cycle: auctioning surplus equipment for fair market value, hospital and other medical facility liquidations and consolidations, inventory services, equipment appraisal services, and assisting facilities in managing the reallocation of equipment within their hospital or hospital system. Centurion's programs streamline the surplus process, minimize the disruption to the hospital facility and maximize the profit.
